

Useful Mode for Lace Frocks

ONE thing we may be sure of, and that is the continued vogue of the lace gown. Everything conspires to make this mode certain of long life. To begin with, women love lace, and lace makers stimulate their devotion by constantly turning out new and alluring varieties of lace. More than all else, the general usefulness of lace gowns is a factor in their favor—they fit in for formal and informal wear, according to the accessories worn with them, and are at home either in afternoon or evening affairs.

Black, brown and ecru laces are in demand just now, at the beginning of a season that may see the list of colors increased. They are made up with silks or satins, usually in the same color, but with contrasting color notes in girdles and sashes, or in trimmings, which are sparingly used with lace. Paris says, "longer and wider skirts," and all the world says, "ribbons." With these assurances, the designer of lace frocks has everything to encourage him.

In the lovely frock pictured we have all these style points emphasized in a dress of ecru lace and changeable taffeta which may be imagined in tan and rose. A wide net top lace is arranged in a long tunic with points at the bottom falling below the hem of the skirt. This hem, it should be noted, makes no pretensions to evenness. The tunic is shortened at the sides. In the bodice the pattern in the lace sweeps across the front in diagonal lines, but over the right shoulder in straight lines. The net sleeves show the top portion of the lace pattern. The wide and long sash would be of ecru colored ribbon. Such a gown might be chosen by maid or matron of honor; in company with a hat as distinctive as that pictured, it could not fail to triumph.

U. S. HAS 4000 PLAYGROUNDS

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK, April 7.—More than 4000 playgrounds and recreational centers in the United States are helping to keep boys out of mischief, teaching girls swimming and other athletics and showing adults how to benefit themselves physically and mentally by play.

The effect they have in keeping boys out of trouble with the police is emphasized in reports which have come to the Playground and Recreation association from all over the country as one of the most important results of the establishment of playgrounds in cities. These facts are given in the year book of the association just made public.

The chief of police of San Francisco believes the establishment of neighborhood recreation centers is a constructive measure toward suppressing the crime wave. He asked the community service to extend its recreation work because he believed that the wrong use of leisure time had much to do with the increase in crime.

Granville Lee, supervisor of the Portland, Maine, recreation commission, says that bad boys behave themselves better during the playground season and also that there are fewer street accidents of children because of playgrounds.

The playground directors of Bay City, Michigan, have discovered that summer activities on the playgrounds have practically eliminated all swearing, cheating and stealing among the children. They note with satisfaction that the spirit of fair play has helped to put the playground bully where he belongs and boast of an appreciable falling off of delinquents.

Cases are reported where mothers have been amazed to note that their children did not catch cold although they played in the snow, that the youngsters have gained in weight and appetite. In one case a father forbade his daughter to play because it made her eat too much.

One thousand children were taught to swim in one week at Tacoma, Washington, and it is estimated that 500, the majority of them girls, have learned to swim at Seattle.

Pageants, plays and community singing have been fostered throughout the country in the past year with good results. One pageant was given at Kalamazoo, Michigan, in a snowstorm but it was attended by several thousands and the scenes were much enhanced by the snowy setting.

MANY NEW HOMES FOR BIRDS WERE BUILT THIS YEAR

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK, April 7.—Birds winging their way northward this spring will find 175,000 new houses built for them during the past year by boys and girls who are members of the 65,000 Junior Audubon clubs scattered over the entire United States and parts of Canada. These youths are among the 1,500,000 members of the organization planted in kindergartens, grammar schools and among groups of young Americans by the National Audubon society.

Each club member, after paying 10 cents as an initiation fee, starts acquiring knowledge of the appearances and habits of both songsters and the unmusical types of birds. Through picture books and hikes to woodland spots they learn to distinguish one kind of bird from another by the kind of feathery clothes they wear, and how also to tell them by their nests, their eggs, and sometimes by their chirps.

The migratory habits and the singing qualities or lack of them in each species form other phases of instruction. Game laws of state and of the nation are explained, but none of the teachers or lecturers sent out by the national organization ever says to little Willie, "You must not kill the pretty birdies." Officials at the organization's headquarters here declare they are striving to conserve bird life not by having more stringent laws passed against hunters, but by interesting children in the birds so that they lose all desire to use them in tests of marksmanship with slingshots, air-guns or light rifles.

Careless hunters have found the club members uncomfortably observant of those who they suspect are bagging more than the limit or shooting out of season. Recently the association received a letter from a sportsman saying there were "400 young volunteer game wardens" in his city exerting a restraining influence upon tricky hunters.

Community singing in factories has been helpful in establishing friendships among the employees and between them and their employers and in lessening the popularity of craps shooting.

Many different organizations are promoting this work, with the result that a 42 per cent gain is reported last year.

FAMOUS RUINS IN POLYNESIA

(By Associated Press)

HONOLULU, T. H., April 7.—Ruins said to be the most impressive ever discovered, the famous ones of Central America not excepted, have recently been located in the Marquesas Islands, according to Ralph Linton, member of one of the expeditionary parties sent to the South Seas by the Bishop museum of Honolulu.

In writing to the museum here of his discovery, Linton said that the ruin in question was that of a gigantic temple, decorated with sculptured heads and full figures in a manner unknown elsewhere in Polynesia, but practised by the temple builders of Indo-China and Central America. The old temple is on the island of Hivo-oa, in the Marquesas group, a French possession.

The figures with which the temple is adorned are from 30 to 40 feet high and are carved from great logs. Their age is approximated at 200 years, although it is believed they are copies of still older carvings.
